

Australian Trusted Trader?

As the world gets smaller and more interconnected, and supply chains longer and more complex, the need for best practice intensifies and so too does the need for trust and confidence between the people and organisations involved.

Why Australian Trusted Trader?

- The Australian Government has recognised the importance of best practice and integrity in supply chain and sought to foster an environment of global competitiveness for international traders with the introduction of the Australian Trusted Trader Program
- By providing preferential treatment to businesses who meet supply chain security and trade compliance standards, Australian Trusted Trader incentivises quality systems and compliance
- Businesses accredited under the program receive a significant range of tangible financial and time-saving benefits – including reduced supply chain costs, improved lead-times, and reduced audits – as well as more predictable customs processes and outcomes
- On the flipside, without the ATT, businesses could face a multitude of risk variables in supply chain logistics, which could result in significant disruptions to their supply chain
